

Jericho Forum - Code of Conduct

All individuals and companies applying to join the Jericho Forum are expected to agree to, and abide by, the following;

1. The Jericho Forum, its mailing list and web site may not be used to market, advertise or otherwise promote goods or services.
2. All Jericho forum members have expectations of privacy, and vendors should not approach any Jericho forum member as a result of;
 - a) "Harvesting" contact details from Jericho Forum e-mail, postings or other Jericho Forum materials,
 - b) Perceiving a need for their goods and/or services as a result of Jericho Forum e-mail, postings or other Jericho Forum materials.
3. All participants in the Jericho forum are expected to contribute to the discussion surrounding the concept and implementation of de-perimeterisation.
Vendors are equally expected to contribute to this discussion and to have individual representatives with technical and design knowledge rather than sales or marketing staff.
4. Vendor representatives in Jericho Forum, when discussing or sharing information, are assumed to have been so authorised by their companies in the full knowledge that all Jericho output can eventually become open source and publicly released Jericho material.
5. When discussing potential solutions, vendors should understand that the Jericho Forum aims, along with the Open Group, to promote open solutions. Thus vendors should refrain from offering or promoting proprietary solutions and/or technology subject to restrictive patents or licensing unless they are prepared to offer them as an open solution / standard.
6. While current Jericho Forum members, the use of the Jericho Forum logo is permitted to indicate that a company or organisation is a member of; or supports; or is working with the Jericho Forum.
The Jericho Forum logo may not be used in conjunction with any product, service or solution, or in any way that would indicate Jericho Forum approval and/or endorsement of a product, service or solution.
7. The Jericho Forum management board reserves the right to take appropriate measures, up to revocation of membership, against any person or organisation abusing their membership of the Jericho Forum.
